What's New In XP Protection?

XPProtection is an easy to use Internet/PC security program that blocks unwanted incoming and outgoing network connections as well as the execution of downloaded executable files. Once XPProtection is installed, you will know if someone else has been using your computer (remote or not) and get alerted if your computer has been tampered with. XPProtection communicates with the Internet. Computers on your internal network can also be protected, and when you reconnect your computer to the network XPProtection can be configured to start automatically. XP Protection can be configured to: Protect computers from being remotely controlled, through the use of a VPN connection. Protect computers from automatically connecting to the internet (via your modem). Protect computers from downloading and executing executable file. Any "on demand" scan of your computer for viruses can be performed without booting your computer. Bits and BaitProtection: HP Proactive Plano's highest level of business security.
