Game Mode Improving the gameplay of the Defensive Skill Stick, Verdict, and X Factor games allows you to dominate the midfield with less pass-based play. New Defensive Skill Stick game mode You can now trigger the Defensive Skill Stick in multiple ways: Hold up the circle button to instantly apply the Verdict game mode, or use it to trigger the X Factor game mode (X Factor) and change the angle of a pass. Hold up the left or right trigger to instantly apply the DSS, or use it to trigger the Verdict or X Factor game modes and toggle the angle of a pass. The DSS is highly effective against every skill move type, including back passes and crosses, so it can be used to kill counter-attacks from other positions and get into key defensive zones. New Verdict game mode The new Verdict game mode will only become active when the DSS is used, and as soon as you trigger it, the ball will get trapped in the penalty area and non-skill moves won't be available. In Verdict mode, only passes and dribbles are allowed, and if you make the correct decisions, you can stay behind to block and intercept any potential counter-attack. All other actions are disallowed and your team will lose possession. This game mode changes completely the way we played the game for years. Instead of doing long pass-based buildup, we're now using DSS to actively kill the build-up before our opponent has a chance to counter-attack. New X Factor game mode The new X Factor game mode will become available only after a successful Verdict and Eredivisie game modes. In the X Factor game mode, you have to score a goal with your precise, trickiest moves. Every trick or skill move is now available, and the game completely changes to more defensive game play. Instead of thinking about how to score and how to react, we're now focusing more on how to defend our key player's positioning. They are limited in time, but it's important that you stay alert. If you ever get caught up in your own game, you can revert back to Verdict game play by tapping DSS again. "We wanted to find a way of making the game more defensive and faster-paced," said Craig

Fifa 22 For Windows 2022 [New]

FIFA (from FIFA, FIFA 20, FIFA Ultimate Team, etc. can't post vid yet. I remember seeing a chat when this game was announced, where a lot of the same old claims about FIFA were challenged. I don't know if those people stuck around this time, but I'd love to hear some of the old responses. FIFA 20 and Ultimate Team were based on over 6 years of crazy innovations, and I imagine there are a lot more to come in FIFA 22. What was your favorite response, or what you most remember? Is there something you'd be most excited to see in FIFA 22? Do you wish it was a specific feature or mode? Thread hijack by a mod for the first post. sirlaizzie Very excited for this! Some of my favourites: Heaps of copy & paste replies, when people claim it's impossible to make a football game because the physics are too hard. "It's what happens when you get one guy with an XP-A sitting in a laboratory, and the rest of the world working with bread and rocks and such" (I'm paraphrasing here). Also, when people claim that making a football game is much easier (I'm paraphrasing here too). At the risk of sounding like a jerk, this thread would benefit from more games. It's very, very hard to make a football game. I've made one, it's not hard. I know this much is true, because when I showed it to my mother, she basically shouted at me that it was impossible to make a football game, and that I need to get a life. (Which sounds harsh, but she's German and English is a second language for her. So maybe that's an excuse? I don't know.) If EA can promise me that it's going to be fun, with nice animations and AI and everything, then I'll be happy. Great! You can make a nice football game. It's not a series of chicken-shits, like cricket or tennis, which can be done as educational competitions, or a nice game, where you have fun, but can't actually play football Proof: "A football game where you can't play football" Alternatively, if you make a realistic football game, or a football game that's 100

What's new:

- This year, the entire FIFA squad has a new look in FIFA 22, modeled with the best detail & visibility possible using that data from the real players in the modern day game.
 - FIFA 22 comes with many new gameplay features such as:

New Physics!

We have fundamentally changed the way players run and decelerate in FIFA 22.

This includes a staggering amount of new animations, such as slides, altered decelerations, and just general new ways of running, including explosiveness, and also means that real-player movement & deceleration is captured and used to simulate on the field.

New Ball Physics!

We wanted to bring the ball to life more than ever before. Ball deceleration, distance, spin and trajectory have all been fundamentally changed to bring the ball to life on the pitch using data from more than 160 different players, along with driver prototypes.

New Global Graphics Settings!

With a new lighting engine, we've completely revitalised the graphics of the game to bring a new level of detail to all environments. Better lighting, more realistic shadows, and more dynamic reflections all enhance the realism of FIFA gameplay.

New Player Physics!

FIFA 22 comes with some of the most realistic and detailed player animations ever seen in a top-end FIFA game. We've got man-to-man physicality, realistic collision responses and lighter touches, all powered by our unique data sourced from today's professional footballers. Our new physics system means players are able to do more, go faster and be just plain cool!

New Gameplay Features!

- FIFA's brand new "Hyper Motion" from WipEout is used to simulate more realistic tackling - with collisions or direct players will react to the impact.
- New set pieces in Career:
